

Testimonial from St Michael's Church

Our Church was plagued with pigeons. Their droppings proved to be an on-going problem which necessitated weekly cleaning of the area surrounding the tower with additional cleaning before weddings and funerals. There was always the danger that they would ruin a wedding dress or cause added distress for mourners.

The inside of the tower was contaminated by their droppings and was a health hazard for those who needed access for the clock and the flag.

There was the added problem of the graveyard which meant that access was difficult. Pro-kill supplied specialist access equipment and was able to remove both internal and external areas of contamination.

The installation of deterrent netting and spikes has prevented the problem from re occurring with no visual impact on the building.

We are very pleased with the work done and commend Pro Kill for their efficiency and professionalism.
